THE STATE OF WISCONSIN.

Executive Department.

A PROCLAMATION.

In compliance with a praiseworthy custom and to commemorate the sacrifice of life to preserve the Nation, I, Jeremiah M. Rusk, Governor of the State of Wisconsin, do hereby recommend to the people of this state, that on Wednesday, the Thirtieth Day of May, they assemble in their usual places and fitly do honor to the patriot dead, decorate their graves with flowers, and recount the deeds of valor of the departed soldiers and sailors, and thereby learn lessons of loyalty, and renew the bonds of fidelity to the Nation's good.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of Wisconsin to be affixed.

Done at the city of Madison [GREAT SEAL] this fourteenth day of May, in the year of our Lord, one thousand, eight hundred and eighty-three.

By the Governor: J. M. RUSK.
ERNST G. TIMMEL, Secretary of State.

There is just a glimmer of hope that summer may come—sometime.

The outlaws of Missouri can now shake hands with the criminals of Chicago.

Hurricanes are on every hand. What the land suffered last week by tornadoes, the lakes have suffered during the past forty-eight hours by a storm which wrecked vessels and caused considerable loss of life.

The eldest son of President Garfield is beginning to show remarkably good judgment for one so young. A certain society wanted him to deliver a lecture and he refused. Much older heads couldn't have acted as wisely.

When Jerry Dunn was acquitted, he posed audaciously before a Chicago audience for their cheers. When Congressman Thompson was acquitted he hastened to Washington and gave himself a good airing under the shadow of the capitol.

The Appleton Post comes out as a daily, the first number being issued on Monday. It is a handsome newspaper and gives promise of much success. If unfiring industry, painstaking editorial labor, and excellent journalistic ability, will make the Daily Post succeed, it will win success. Mr. Alex Reid, who has been the editor of the Appleton Post for a number of years, is one of the brightest men in the profession of journalism in the state. We know him thoroughly, and hence are able to speak of him in terms that will not be exaggerated.

General Lucius Fairchild is receiving a boom from the Shipping World and Herald of Commerce, a monthly paper published in London. In speaking of the probable candidates for the presidency in 1884, that paper says: "The influence of the veterans of the war, directly and indirectly, is still a potent factor in American politics, and the old party of union and freedom will doubtless take this into account and nominate a popular soldier. General Fairchild, a hero of Gettysburg, is supported by several western journals." He has great experience in commercial and diplomatic affairs, and served as governor of Wisconsin for six years with great ability and general satisfaction. He is an enthusiast for internal improvements, and the revival of American shipping."

We notice that in a Madison dispatch to the Milwaukee Sentinel numerous errors have been discovered in the Blue Book for the present year, and that in consequence of this Secretary of State Timme has concluded to change the mode of editing that publication. Heretofore it has been the habit to appoint some person outside of the secretary's office to compile the Blue Book. As the pay to this person was not munificent he could not, of course, bestow an extraordinary amount of labor upon the volume. Notwithstanding this fact the Wisconsin Blue Book has been more creditable than the similar publications of other states. In order that it shall be still more valuable, Secretary Timme proposes to have the next volume compiled by the skilled clerks in his office. This plan will result in a book almost absolutely perfect.

People just now are having their attention turned toward peculiar Boston—a city that boasts of its culture and elevated morals. It is a great town for sentiment, hypocrisy, and shams. The Journal of that city said a day or two ago that "people who have spent a lifetime in that city would never suspect that the city could supply an audience such as that which applauded the radical Henry George at Tremont Temple the other night, and heard with approval his predictions of the fall of the republic, exultation of Communism and Nihilism, and demands for the distribution of land among all the people." But then, anything ridiculous is possible in Boston. When a city will give Dennis Karney a more hearty reception than it would the president of the United States; give a prize-fighter a bigger audience than it did Charles Dickens; and turn out 20,000 of its citizens to a slogging match, it is right to conclude that it is no wonder Ben Butler got a majority in the city.

Waukesha society is just now having an interesting time in discussing the Bacon divorce case of that village. Some three years ago, Mr. W. D. Bacon, who lives in Waukesha and is quite rich, lost his first wife by death. She had borne him several children, and the eldest is a son now successfully practicing medicine in that place. In about a year after Mrs. Bacon died, Mr. Bacon pretended to fall in love with Mrs. Gibbs, a daughter of the well-known "Pump" Carpenter. She was a young widow, quite handsome, very vivacious exceedingly charming in many respects, and succeeded in bewitching so easily and grasping an old man as Mr. Bacon. They were married, not altogether in haste, because Mrs. Gibbs had lived in Waukesha a long time and had a splendid opportunity to know Mr. Bacon. She now seeks a divorce, which is not to be wondered at. Her complaint is that he refused to give her proper support, and that he kept another woman in the house who acted as his wife in all particular. We presume the steps Mr. Bacon has taken, and the changes she makes in the complaint will surprise nobody who has lived in Waukesha long enough to become acquainted with the defendant. Mrs. Gibbs thought she was going to marry a home and a good living, and she got neither. As Bacon is worth somewhere in the neighborhood of $300,000, she may get some alimony. He is 67, and his wife only 31.

RUSSIA'S CZAR.

The Autocrat of all the Russias in Moscow.

Description of the Pageant at His Entry--Reported Attempt to Assassinate Him.

Moscow, May 23.—The weather for the entry of the czar into Moscow was splendid. The whole route, from Peterhoff palace to the Kremlin, four and a half miles, was crowded with people. At every point imperial standards were displayed, and the balconies were hung with gayly colored materials and the Russian colors. The only foreign flags allowed to be displayed were those over the various embassies. Along the road over which the procession traversed were hundred of Russian flags from which balloons were flying. All the domes and spires of buildings in the city were decked with flags. Thousands of persons followed the night out of doors, so they might secure good places to witness the procession, and multitudes of others thronged the churches, praying for the safety of the emperor.

THE ROYAL PAGEANT.

The czar left the Peterhoff palace at noon and reached the Kremlin at 1:35 o'clock. There was a slight fall of rain during the march of the procession, but otherwise the affair was a complete success. The enthusiasm of the people all along the route was unbounded. The signal for the starting of the procession was the firing of artillery and the ringing of the bells in the Cathedral of the Assumption. On the emperor mounting other salutes were fired. The order of the procession was as follows:

Chief officer of police and 12 gendarmes.

Private escort of the emperor.

First squadron of Cossacks of the guard and one squadron of the guard.

Second squadron of the guard.

Court servants, couriers and butlers.

Major of ceremonies in a carriage followed by six horses and followed by large members of court officials and suite.

Foreign press.

Members of the council of the empire.

Grand master of the court.

Squadron of the Cavalier guards.

EMPEROR ON HORSEBACK.

Followed by Count Alexander Adlerberg, minister of war and mid-de-camp general, Czartoriski and Grand Duke George, Michael, Alexis, Paul, and Constantine, Son of Constantine, the last named, and others.

After all the major members of the imperial family, who were on horseback, came the empress, accompanied by the Grand Duchess Xenia, in a state carriage, drawn by eight horses, a groom leading each horse, with equestris on either side of the carriage, mounted pages and guards following.

THE STATE CARRIAGES.

Then came the state carriages, the first containing the Grand Duchesses Maria Pavlovna and Alexandra Josephovna.

Second, Grand Duchesses Olga Iodorovna and Maria Alexandrovna, and the Duchess of Edinburg.

Third, the Grand Duchess Vera Constantinovna, the Duchess of Wurttemberg, and the Grand Duchess Catherine Michailovna.

Fourth, the Princess Marie of Baden, Princess Eugenie of Oldenburg, and the Grand Duchess Helen of Oldenburg-Sleitzen.

A squadron of the cuirassier regiment of the guard.

Ladies of honor in carriages.

A squadron of ladies of the guard.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

The mayor and deputations of tradesmen followed the procession at the old Triumphal Arch.

The marshals of the nobility of Warsaw and several other districts did honor to the emperor at Tsarskaya place.

The civil governor of Moscow, judges, and other city officers received the emperor at the Gate of the Resurrection, where his imperial majesty and the grand dukes and empress alighted and knelt in prayer before a picture of the Virgin.

The arrival of Warsaw received their majesties at the Cathedral of the assumption with honors and holy water.

At this point the cheering of the people was perfectly deafening.

The procession then entered the Kremlin.

THE EMPEROR'S DEMAND.

The emperor wore the uniform of a general, and was mounted on a splendid charger. He rode a little in advance of four generals, who were directly attending him. He maintained a calm demeanor, although he often smiled graciously in response to the wild enthusiasm which greeted him at every point. Cheer upon cheer followed each other incessantly from the densely packed multitude on the streets, and from the thousands of people in the balconies and windows.

THE EMPRESS WELL RECEIVED.

The empress was greeted with every mark of enthusiasm and loyalty. Her daughter, the Grand Duchess Xenia, threw kisses to the people.

The mounted grand duke formed a very brilliant group. The Asiatic deputations were also magnificently attired.

The state carriages were splendidly decorated. The entire route was lined with troops.

At the moment the cortego entered the city a salute of seventy-one guns was fired from Tsarskaya place.

The governor general received the emperor at the city boundary, and joined the cortego with his suite.

BOMBS IN THE DRESSING ROOM.

LONDON, May 23.—A dispute from Berlin says: A report, which is not yet confirmed, comes from St. Petersburg that presents to the departure of the emperor for Moscow and his arrival in the fire-place in his dressing room, but nobody was injured, the emperor and empress being in the dining-room at the time.

A remedy for Indigestion, Consumption, Dyspepsia, Weakness, Fever, Ague, etc., GOLDEN'S LIQUID BEEF TONIC.

TRACK TALK.

The Chicago Railway Exposition--End of the Chippewa Railway War--Scrapes of News.

CHICAGO, May 23.

Every effort is being made by those in charge at the Exposition building to get everything in running order by 6 o'clock tomorrow evening. It is probable that many thousand people will be present at the opening exercises. The exhibits came in at a very lively rate yesterday, and required the best attention of many hundred men. Some of the exhibitors have their goods arranged in an attractive way, and are several days ahead of time, while others are waiting for the last day in which to startle their neighbors with the beauty of their displays.

Several more huge engines have arrived and been put in place. One is sent by the Northern Pacific road, and has eight driving wheels. Another from the Pennsylvania coal regions has six driving wheels. The Baltimore & Ohio road sends a primitive engine, and the Grand Rapids, Mich., Fort Wayne, Ind., Quincy, Ill., St. Louis, Mo., St. Louis, Mo., Columbus, O., CUSHION CARRIAGE.

Further Details of the Sudden Drop in Temperature--The Effect on Crops.

The Polar Wave Makes it Lively for the Overcast Business in the South.

EL PASO, III., May 23.—There was a heavy frost last night, and ice formed nearly a quarter of an inch thick. Apples and small fruit, early potatoes and garden products were injured to some extent. Oats and corn are injured very little, if any. Corn is very backward, and at least half will have to be reaped on account of the cold, wet weather.

ANNA, Ill., May 23.—This section was visited by a heavy frost, water freezing in many places to the thickness of an eighth of an inch. All melons and vegetables of that character are killed, and probably peaches and nectarines damaged badly.

DIXON, Ill., May 23.—There was a severe frost here. Ice formed and some injury was done due to young fruit.

GALVA, Ill., May 23.—This section of Illinois was visited by a severe frost which has done incalculable damage to plants and fruit. Water standing out of doors in vessels froze to a considerable thickness last night.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., May 23.—A strong north wind has prevailed here for thirty-six hours, causing much suffering and sickness, so far as have generally removed from living rooms. Following the slight snowfall of yesterday a sheet of ice was formed this morning, and tender garden vegetables suffered injury. Corn is up, but is not probably materially damaged. The cold is increasing to-night.

CLINTON, Ill., May 23.—The weather took another very sudden change and grew colder, and as a consequence a damaging frost occurred by which fruit and all kinds of garden vegetation were seriously frost-bitten and in all probability killed. Corn and potatoes were burned black to the ground, but fears are entertained of permanent injuries to those as they will recover. Fruit is probably seriously injured. Ice froze one-eighth of an inch in thickness.

NOROMA, Ill., May 23.—Frost damaged early garden truck, tender plants and the like. The fruit is not killed in this locality. Fruit growers examined their strawberry vines, and the berries are uninjured. The growing grain is not hurt.

PANA, Ill., May 23.—The late cool, wet weather resulted in a little snow here, and a slight freezing of the ground and water last night. The tender vegetables were cut down, and the strawberries are thought to be seriously injured.

NEW YORK, May 23.—Frost in this locality did great injury to growing crops of all kinds, killing almost all plants and garden vegetables and retarding the growth of corn and potatoes. The weather is still cold.

NEW YORK, May 23.—The storm south of here was very severe. The newly plowed and planted fields of Long Island were flooded. Lightning did considerable damage on the Jersey coast.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 23.—The storm was heavy here. The rivers and creeks are high and rising.

THE SOUTH.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 23.—The Gazette's special from Helena says: The cotton crop is suffering from the effect of Monday night's cold weather. The mercury touches 38 degrees, the lowest over known at this time of the year. Some localities report slight white frost.

AUGUSTA, Ga., May 23.—Overcoats and fires are comfortable. The thermometer is 80. If it is a frost cotton will be injured.

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 23.—While the crops will doubtless be affected by the sharp winds, it is not thought serious injury will result, unless the cold is of long continuance. The thermometer is at 80.

PENNSYLVANIA.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., May 23.—There is a flood in the Susquehanna river and the water is still rising. Logs are coming in fast from all the small streams. About 70,000,000 foot of logs are on the way.

OTHER POINTS.

LINCOLN, Neb., May 23.—Snow covered the ground in this and adjoining counties until noon yesterday, when it melted under the hot sun. The weather is clearing up.

Judge Krum has debts for two large estates and had in his custody belonging to them about $50,000, and as nothing is known as to the whereabouts of this money, the hours are very uneasy and anxious for his return.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO, May 22.—Rodger & Co.'s market letter of this evening says: The market opened this morning at about last night's closing prices, with sales of July wheat at $1.12%, and weakened to $1.11% for the same option in anticipation of what the scalpers have been accustomed to expect—the usual morning break. It was soon apparent, however, that there was no wheat for sale. Mr. Littleton, who had been a liberal buyer yesterday, applied his whip, and the bears commenced to cover. July advancing to $1.18, August to $1.13%, and September to $1.14%. Both the bulls were rather bidding than buying at the advance. The wants of the shorts were supplied, and on the call this afternoon a reaction followed which has carried the market back to about the lowest figure since the heavy business was transacted on the call, and through the day were larger than were all other good series. Receipts were 60 cars and shipments about 100,000 bushels. Corn has been without any special features, and has moved within narrow limits. Receipts were somewhat larger, 210 cars, but although not a capacity of 200 bushels, having arrived, it is evident that the movement out will be even heavier than it has been. About 350,000 bushels of corn, we understand, were chartered to New York, and about 100,000 bushels to Canada.
